Carpentier And Dempsey Meet For First Time At Madison Square Garden

Dont Miss This On Monday

On Monday, next, the Big Hall of Monitor will be the scene of another musical programme of high quality. This time the citizens are to be favoured with "The Musical Eckhardts"

This is by no means a "jazz" company. Their reputation is made, and their programming is of the highest quality throughout. The entertainment consists of a 3 act drama, with 5 Vaudeville acts. The price for admission are within reach of everyone—six bits and two bits

Come on over, and have a good time.

There's a dance after the show too.

Childrens Gift Service

Instead of Sunday School... Sunday next a special Childrens Service will be held at 12 noon at which gifts of Toys and other articles will be received to present to Indian Children for Christmas. The attendance and interest of children and adults are earnestly invited and any gifts (new or old) will be gratefully received.

Choir Practices on Saturday evening at 8 p. m.

Monitor Tea Room Changes Hands

The Monitor Tea Room, established by A. J. Deadmarsh has now completely changed its management. Mr. M. Barker, who was formerly in the General store adjoining, has taken over the Room, and will continue to operate this asset to the community.

Mr. Barker assures us that everything possible will be done to merit the patronage of the citizens of the district, and The News be speaks for him for him the hearty support of all. This spirit of enterprise needs fostering.

Monitor Honour Roll

A permanent Honour Roll is in course of preparation to take the place of the temporary one in St. Laurence Church, Monitor. In order that the list of names may be complete and accurate, will the relatives or friends of all soldiers who enlisted from this locality please send in particulars of name, etc. to the Rev. W. S. Wickenden with as little delay as possible?

Shadow Social

At Minor

A Shadow Social will be held at the Minor School, nine (9) miles south of Monitor, Nov. 27 at 8.30 p.m. Everybody welcome Ladies bring lunch for two. Proceeds to be used to purchase an organ for school.

Owner Of White Sox Said To Have Unearthed Baseball Scandal

Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, whose efforts are said to have been responsible for the uncovering of evidence which lead to the indictment of seven star players of the White Sox and one former player on charges of "Complicity in a conspiracy to 'fix' the 1919 World's Series. Local Happenings

F. Breen left for Bismarck, N. Dakota on Tuesday last. He expects to be gone about 6 months.

As an aggregation of real "live-wires" we wish to raise our hats to the O. N. O. Club, who, in the recent campaign for the sale of Chautauqua tickets sold 30 in a day. Thanks girls. It is organizations like this that have put, and that keep Monitor in her place as the "live-est" town in the province.

We would inform our readers that we have received this years samples of "Personal Greeting Cards" and although the samples are not so many, the quality of the cards are far in advance of any we have seen yet. Call in and have your orders now—only seven weeks to Xmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe have moved into the house formerly occupied by Mr. Steensland.

St. Laurence Church was very tastefully decorated for the Harvest Thanksgiving, held last Sunday.

Mr. E. Steensland has purchased the house formerly owned by Mrs. Lawrence on Conant St.

Winter has come.

The Imperial Oil Co's tanks have had a new coat of paint.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN Who wish to marry can be introduced through our bureau; all letters treated confidential; for particulars write Mr. Rushman 223 McIntyre Blk. Winnipeg, Man.

Choir practices are being resumed at St. Laurence Church. A hearty invitation is extended to everyone to be present on Thursdays and Saturdays. If sufficient members show an interest, it is desired to have one of the two practices for secular music, glee, etc. There is a need for more male singers.

St. Laurence Church O. K. Livery Has New Management

Divine Service Sunday next Nov. 7 at 7.30 p.m. Music will include the Anthem "Sweet is Thy Mercy Lord." The Rev. W. S. Wickenden will give an address concerning The Lambeth Conference. This assembly of Bishops from every part of the world met in England during August and the outcome of their deliberations in reference to Church Unity, Industrial Problems and other important matters mark the dawn of a new era.

Holy Communion will be celebrated Sunday next at the close of Divine Service.

There's one thing about it. After this last Chautauqua no one can say that a Monitor audience is unappreciative of good music.

No then boys, we cant all be Roman Candles, but dont forget that even "tallow dips" have a place in the world.

We take pleasure in introducing to our readers, Mr. Leo Sloan and Mr. Martin Sloan, formerly of Kirriemuir, who have purchased the livery business from M. S. Earl here in Monitor.

The Sloan brothers are old hands at the game, and have had considerable experience in this line of work in both provinces. Finding the present quarters too small for the business, they are building a lean-to on the present barn, and as soon as this is completed, will be able to handle all the teams that ever come into Monitor.

The draying business is also being taken over by Sloan Bros. and they assure a prompt and efficient as well as a careful service on all lines of draying.

We bespeak for Messrs Sloan the hearty good-will and co-operation of the citizens of the district.

An Armistice Day Appeal

In a few days people the world over will celebrate the second anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, that great event which signalized the final triumph of the cause of freedom over the powers of a military autocracy bent upon world domination and a denial of those great principles for which liberty loving people have struggled and died throughout the long centuries of the past.

Armistice Day is one which should never be forgotten, nor its significance to the whole human race ignored. It should be indelibly written upon the hearts of men and women everywhere, and should be imperishably stamped into the minds of the children now and in generations to come. More than this, each recurring anniversary of the Armistice may well be marked by some act of a notable character by the people in each of the countries allied in the war; some act in the nature of a freewill offering, a tangible and practical expression of thanks for the victory achieved; an annually recurring day upon which some little sacrifice will be made by the many in all nations for the benefit of those whose misfortunes and sufferings call loudly for human sympathy and practical assistance.

So far as Canada is concerned, the Red Cross proposes some such national observance of Armistice Day this year, and it is fitting that the world's greatest and most widely known humanitarian organization should thus lead the way. Alone among all voluntary organizations of an international character, the Red Cross has been officially recognized by the League of Nations as a proper body to exercise functions and discharge important administrative duties of an international character, and it has been appealed to by the Council of the League of Nations to undertake as its first great work the checking of the terrible epidemic of disease, now sweeping over a large portion of Europe, and relieve the indescribable suffering and distress which accompanies and follows that epidemic. Hundreds of thousands of people are stricken and dying of typhus, tuberculosis and hunger, while positively millions of children, thousands upon thousands of whom are orphans, lack food, clothing, shelter and care and are dying in appalling numbers.

To meet this awful need, and if possible prevent the spread of typhus throughout the world, the League of Red Cross Societies, which now includes thirty different countries, is sending doctors, nurses, medicines, food and other necessities into the stricken countries. In order that the British Empire, always foremost in works of civilization and humanity all over the globe, may discharge its full duty in the present great emergency, a British Empire War Relief Fund has been inaugurated under the patronage of H.M. the King, and with the support of all political parties and humanitarian organizations. This fund is to be administered by the British Red Cross Society in co-operation with the League of Red Cross Societies.

The people of the Empire are asked to contribute $10,000,000 to this Fund, and of this amount, $500,000 has been indicated as the amount which Canada ought to supply. The Canadian Red Cross has assumed the task of raising this half million dollars, and Armistice Week has been designated as the period during which an appeal will be made to the Canadian people to make contributions which, in the aggregate, will total that amount.

The efforts of the Canadian Red Cross during and since the war have, very properly, been largely confined to work for our own soldiers and sailors, and in the direction of promoting health, preventing disease and relieving distress and suffering at home. Now, in the face of untold horrors and suffering, a world appeal comes through the Red Cross to the Canadian people. It is an appeal to which the Red Cross organization could not turn a deaf ear. It is a call to service which cannot be resisted and must not be denied. The spirit of the Red Cross is not narrow nor selfish; the whole world is its field and all peoples of every clime and color have a claim upon its sympathy and support.

In Western Canada the appeal on behalf of the British Empire War Relief Fund will be made to the people through local branches of the Red Cross and in the newspapers. All contributions will be sent to Red Cross headquarters in the respective Provincial Divisions, and then forwarded through the head office for Canada to the British Red Cross.

As was the case on all occasions in the past, it is now hoped and expected that the warm-hearted, open-handed generosity of the people of the West will result in a prompt response to the appeal on behalf of the disease stricken and starving men, women and, more especially, children of Europe.

Lesson of the Leaves.

We should draw a lesson from the leaves which put on their gayest, brightest dresses before they depart. They make the landscape one gorgeous mass of color; there is no sadness in them. We know their future; how they will help in beautifying and enriching the earth in some other form; and so with us there is the knowledge that when our autumn has passed we shall in some form serve the purpose of a wise Creator.—Kingston Standard.

Care of Farm Machinery

Needed Repairs Should Be Made When Harvest Is Over.

The attention that is given farm machinery this fall will determine its condition when it must be used in the spring. How many times have we found when we take the implements or machinery out of the shed in the spring that some repairs which was needed has not been attended to? And then—delay, when delay is costly, in the spring.

When the harvest is over, machinery should be collected and gone over for needed repairs. By cleaning, oiling and painting in the fall, rust and costly deterioration will be prevented during the winter, and the machines will be ready for use in the spring.

BEWARE OF DECEPTION

Statistics show that when egg albumen is used as a constituent of baking powder, the amount so used is too small (usually 15/100 of 1%) to affect the quality or effectiveness of the baking powder containing it, and when so used, is plainly for the purpose of fraud. Intelligent buyers will not permit themselves to be deceived by the water glass test.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS ALWAYS IN THE HOUSE

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she always keeps a supply on hand, for the first trial convinces her there is nothing to equal them in keeping children well. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, thus driving out constipation and indigestion, colds and simple fevers and making everything easier. Concerning them, Mrs. Caluste Pelletier, St. Dumas, Que., writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past ten years and am never without them in the house. They have always given me the greatest satisfaction and I can gladly recommend them to all mothers of little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or direct by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Their excellence was recognized from the first and still continues.

Hasten The Day.

A speeding up of production all round will hasten the advent of the glad day when a dollar will buy a dollar's worth of goods. A tendency on the part of the workers towards greater efficiency is noted in the papers. In this way alone can the present scale of wages and the shorter working hours be maintained. Altogether the prospects are bright on this continent for easier living conditions.—Hamilton Spectator.

Field Crops of Canada.

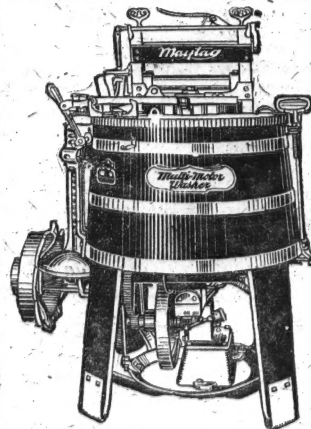

The total field crops of Canada will this year reach nearly 1,250,000 bushels, while the products of hay and corn will exceed 25,000,000 tons as compared with over 1,000,000,000 bushels of grain and 20,000,000 tons of hay and corn in 1919, according to official figures. It is estimated that the price of 1920 wheat will average $2 per bushel. The field crops of Canada represent about $170 per head of the population, as compared with $110 per head in the United States.

Largest Room Without Pillars.

The largest room without columns is said to be in a solid concrete building of the mosque in Lucknow, India. It is 162 feet long, 54 feet wide and 53 feet high. The timber mold was left a year for the concrete to set, and the building, 125 years old, is still unimpaired.

ALTARIO

On the time-honored eve of Halloween, the parents and friends of the district assembled at the invitation of Miss Inkster and pupils, who "received" from 6 p.m. Most of the children wore fancy dress and looked quaint and amusing in their varied costumes. We saw Joan Bull, a Poilu, several ghosts, tall top-hatted gentlemen of tender years and many little maids from other lands. The Misses Kallman, McLeod and Staley served tea and cake and a certain brand of camouflaged chocolates. The creditable exhibits of schoolwork were tastefully arranged on the walls. These exhibits reflected the greatest credit to the teacher and the painstaking care of the pupils. The children's "scribbles" were shown with samples of writing and composition. Basket work and weaving were also on display, as well as sewn kindergarden work. An exhibit that attracted much attention was the Bronze medal donated by the Gov-General to the grade 8 pupil winning the highest marks in the Consort Inspectorate, accompanied by a letter from the Dept. of Education to Owen Conquest, the successful candidate, of Altario school, who is thirteen years old. Eortunes were told for a dime by an uncanny look-ghost who did a thriving business—proceeds for the school club. Mr. McLeod, on behalf of the School Board and community expressed thanks to Miss Inkster, who replied in a graceful short speech.

A PIMPLE REMOVER THAT NEVER FAILS

Dr. Hamilton Stands Behind
His Formula.

Bad blood is always responsible for pimples, blackheads and humours. Pimples, eczema and boils are the common result.

I contend that to cure these ills, the liver, kidneys and bowels must receive attention.

My remedy, known as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butter-nut, invariably reaches the trouble.

For putting life into sleepy organs, for forcing out every kind of waste and foreign matter, for making health-sustaining blood, where can you find such efficiency as in Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

In a thousand cases I have demonstrated that Dr. Hamilton's Pills cure facial blemishes and skin diseases.

I look upon these pills as the best blood purifier and system builder of the age, and guarantee they will cure every complaint having its origin in a weak or debilitated blood supply.

If Dr. Hamilton's Pills will not cure that tired, rundown condition, if they will not change lack of force into energy and vim, then nothing will.

By creating an abundant supply of rich, nourishing blood they maintain that standard of health so much desired by those participating in the strenuous life we live today.

Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills and prove their merit today, 25c per box.

"They want to take this away from us," he mused, "and—ah! this. And the d— means want to steal it away from all this. Well, let them try."

He turned, lifting his head to catch the low night-calls that floated from the far-away corridors of the deep wood. The forest was breathing its nocturnal song—a hushed chant, interspersed with the faintest of the wild things that roamed and fed and voiced their gladness after the manner of their kind. The shrill bark of a fox sounded from neither sadly, like a lost child; a little while into the thicket a brood of partridges huddled, peeping with plaintive voices.

"I guess they can't understand very well what all this means to us."

Paisley turned and strode on through the scanty wood-fringe along the lake shore until he came to an open spot of nearly two acres. A dim light twinkled from the window of a log-house, and a couple of dogs came forward with fierce yappings which changed to whines of welcome as they recognized their visitor. The door of the house flew open, and a woman, whose frame filled the doorway completely, sent a scolding command out to the dogs.

"David and Goliath," she commanded, "come in here! Once or I'll break your no-account backs with this poker."

"Night, Mrs. Declute," called Paisley.

"And?" rasped the woman, "be you hum?" "Cause if you be, Bill Paisley wants to know it."

The huge form was nudged aside and Declute's grinning face peered out into the night.

"Come right on in, Bill," invited the lord and master. An ironwood pole leaned against the log and on it hung a splendid specimen of buck newly killed. On the floor of the house lay a smaller deer already skinned and now being dissected by the trapper. Three children of various sizes sat about the carcass, each munching a piece of cornmeal from a chubby fist.

"How do the babies, marm?" asked Paisley, carefully stepping through and over the wide-eyed little Declutes and sitting down on a stool near the fireplace. "And, two deer in an afternoon ain't such bad luck, eh?"

"I hit another," cried Ander, "bigger'n th' one outside. Shot about an inch too high though. But I trailed him down an' I'll get him in th' mornin'." Might have killed a doe, too. Had a good chance, but I didn't take it.

"Zacharius has got a teach of pisin-ivy," said the woman, "I'm treatin' it with sassafras 'ile an' potash. How've you been yourself, Bill?"

"Fredin' and sleppin' like a babe, thanks," replied Paisley. "What I dropped round for was to find out just what you folks think of the way them down-ellers are actin'."

"Did Hallibut or Watson make you any offer for your timber?"

"Wall, yes, they did," answered Ander slowly. "Offered me three hundred dollars for the big snuff on my place only a day or two ago."

Said that you and McTavish and Peeler and most of the others had taken an offer they made you for yours, and I said 't' the fellow, 'If th' other chaps see it that way I guess I'll see it that way, too.' I'm to take my deed 't' Bridgetown when I tote these furs over next Saturday, an' they're goin' to give me another deed and the money."

"How did you see?" asked Paisley. "That storekeeper Smythe. He says, says he, 'the money'll be ready for you when you come, an' says he, 'don't tell any of your neighbors, 'cause we're payin' you much we are them, an' they won't like it.'"

"I don't take 't' this way they have of wantin' Ander 't' keep dark," said the woman. "I ain't takin' kind like 't' lettin' the timber go anyway. We don't really need that money. Ander he makes enough outin' trappin' and shootin' for our wants, and if they're in here what are they goin' to do 't' our property? That's what I want to know."

Paisley bit off a piece of tobacco and shrugged his shoulders.

"Ander," he asked, watching the trapper roll up the green hide, "how much did you make in furs and deer-meat last fall and winter?"

"He made four hundred and three dollars," answered he we proudly.

"Well, then, let me tell you something," Paisley tapped the stalk of his rifle impressively with his knuckle. "Just as soon as you take Smythe's money you're trappin' and all other days are over here, for all time. They'll have you just where they've been tryin' to get the rest of us. Once they get hold of your deed you can whistle. This land is worth thousands more'n they offer you, and they know it. What has Hallibut's mill done for the marm-trapper? I guess you know. They'll drive the furs off and they'll drive you'n me off, and they want to do just that, too."

"Declute arose from the floor. "If I thort that—," he commenced; but his wife broke in:

"If you thort! Just as if you could think, you thick-head you. Didn't I tell you that I suspected them fellers, and don't Bill Paisley here know? Don't he allars know? Siet-right up, Ander, an' don't you try an' think. You had no right to act without seein' Bill here an' Big Mac, anyway."

"But I wasn't goin' to Rachel," drawled Declute. "I was goin' over to Big Mac's, and this very night I'm on Bill on the way over. Don't you get too-danged crusty, wife."

The ponderous woman waved a hand toward the progeny on the floor.

"You, David an' Moses an' Zacharius," she commanded, scramble out of th' road instantly, I'm wantin' to set over 't' th' cubboard."

There was a hurried scramble out of the way, and the mother rolled across the room and secured a paper from an inner recess of the home-built cupboard.

"Bill Paisley," she said, passing the paper over to the visitor, "you be goin' to keep this here deed for me an' Ander—ain't I right, Ander?" she nodded, the corner of her mouth drawn down warningly.

"If you say so, ma—in course," consented Ander.

"Good idea," grinned Paisley, folding the paper and placing it in his pocket. "Now, Ander, after you've finished cuttin' up that carcass, suppose you come along with me and we'll look in on the rest of the Bushwhackers and see if we can't get their deeds, too."

Declute glanced at his spouse. She nodded, and with much alacrity the little man arose.

"Don't know as I'll be much of a help to you, Bill," he laughed, "but I'll go along anyway."

It was midnight when Paisley opened the door of the McTavish home and with a voiceless laugh waved the bundle of deeds above his head. The

First, by the bright copper color of the tea when steeped.

Second, by the exquisite aroma.

Third, by the delightful, refreshing flavor.

Fourth, by the satisfying richness.

Fifth, by the economical strength.

candle was burning dimly; the fire in the wide fireplace was almost dead. Boy sat before it alone, looking thoughtfully into its depths. Paisley crossed over to him and placed the deeds in his hand.

"They can't get the timber without the deeds," he chuckled, "and to get the deeds I guess they'll have to get us, eh?"

Boy caught his friend's hand and pressed it. He tried to speak, and noting his feelings, Paisley drew forth his pipe and filled it as he gave, in an undertone, an account of his great night's work.

"I guess all the Bushwhackers'll have reason to thank you, Bill," said Boy. "I ain't sure that they all feel like I do about holdin' this," he swept his arm about him and a glow came into his eyes. "It's been a lot to me—a lot. Nobody can guess what it would mean to me to see this woods crippled. Somchow, I haven't been just myself since they started it over there. I can't sleep like I used to."

I know it's foolish, but that saw gets buzzin' in my dreams and I'm fightin' 'till night for this. Bill, this woods and all it holds. I was thinkin' in 'at I'd come over and see you, when you stepped in. Bill, we don't ever say much, us Bushwhackers; but tonight I couldn't help but be glad me and you have always been what we have to each other. Some things come over me lately that grip tight hold of me and hold me without hurtin', and I seem to like the feelin', too. It's like frost that kills without hurtin'. If I wasn't strong I'd think I was gettin' sick."

There came from the inner room a voice mumbled in troubled sleep. Boy lifted his head and smiled. "It was your name she called, Boy," whispered Paisley wonderingly.

"Ma says she often calls out that way," said Boy. "Sometimes it's my name and sometimes it's dad's. Gloss dreams a lot, I guess."

Paisley noted the smile that drifted across his friend's face, and he nodded his head up and down slowly.

"Course I'll be hittin' the back trail," he said rising, "and you best go to bed, Boy. I'll come over to-morrow as we arranged and help you set your traps in the mornin'. It's goin' to freeze right soon, and trappin' is on from now. Declute got a couple of deer this afternoon, so we'll just take a whack at 'em ourselves toward night to-morrow."

"You'd better stay and sleep with me, Bill," said Boy. "Somchow I'd like to have you, and we could make a real start in the mornin'."

"Oh, I'll hoof it along back, I guess," laughed Paisley.

He was wondering whether he ought to tell Boy what he had learned concerning Watson and Simpson. He glanced at Boy and his lips closed tight.

"He'd kill 'em both," he thought, "I'll watch them fella myself."

With his hands on the latch of the door he glanced back. Boy was seated before the dead fire, his chin on his hand and the bundle of deeds pressed against his cheek. Paisley leaned his rifle against the wall and untrapped his powder-horn. Then he came back and put his hands on Boy's shoulders.

"I'd best stay, I guess," he grinned, "and show you how a real Bushwhacker should sleep. It strikes me, Boy, that you're lookin' some lone-some and need company. Glad Ander Declute's goin' to give a loggin' bee. It'll stir us all up."

Former Kaiser Writing a Book.

The former Kaiser, in his Holfand retreat, is writing a "political testament," the central idea of which is a justification of his course as ruler of Germany in the eyes of the world. The "testament" is not to be published until after his death. Professor Theodore Scheidemann, the aged historian and personal friend of the former Kaiser, is assisting him in the assembling of data, and is also aiding in the editing. The testament seeks to justify all of Wilhelm's personal and political acts.

'Fatal Neglect.'

A dog stolen in New York had three gold teeth, wore a belt that held three gold watches and a collar studded with 100 brilliant stones. The loss of the dog is attributed directly to false economy on the part of the owner in not having supplied it with a gold-headed cane with which to protect itself.

Rheumatic Pains

Are relieved in a few days by taking 30 drops of Mother Seigel's Syrup after meals and on retiring. It dissolves the lime and acid accumulation in the muscles and joints so these deposits can be expelled, thus relieving pain and soreness. Seigel's Syrup, also known as "Extract of Roots," contains no drugs nor other strong drugs to kill or mask the pain of rheumatism or lumbago. It removes the cause. 50c a bottle at druggists.

But your Own

Last Brigade from Swan River to York Factory

By O-GE-MAS-ES (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

To-Mrs. A. M.

A Foreword: It is a hard matter for an old Fur-Trader to take a pen and try to show the modern reader what the old days were like. But, which one is asked by a most charming and talented lady, and when she becomes persistent, why then nothing remains but to comply with her request.

In the spring of 1874 being at that time an apprentice clerk in the honorable Hudson's Bay Co.'s service, and rejoicing in a salary of £30 a year, with the usual clerk's allowances (yearly) of 200 lb. flour, 200 lb. sugar, 20 lb. tea, 10 lb. of rice and 10 lb. of chocolate; with two gallons of wine and two of spirits. I received orders from the Chief Factor, at Fort Ellis, to take charge of Shoal River House, which post was situated about sixteen miles from the mouth of Swan River, on the north side of Shoal Lake. Reaching there with two dog trains in the latter part of March and after complying with all formalities incidental to taking over a post, I settled down to my first independent charge with feelings of great pride and no small sense of responsibility.

Shoal River House was charmingly situated on a sandy bar immediately fronting the lake, while to the west and south showed up the grim ranges of the Porcupine Mountains, densely covered with spruce. The Fort itself was enclosed with a stout wall of hewn timber. Heavy gates opened directly in front of the Master's house, and on each side of the enclosure were the usual store houses and men's quarters.

Trading furs kept me busily employed until the opening of the lakes and rivers, when official orders reached me to engage as many boatmen as possible to make the trip to York Factory, my post to be the starting point of the Brigade. Finally, having secured every able bodied man within a radius of 100 miles, the post began to assume appearance of a little town; long rows of Indian Teepees were erected along the ridge east of the Fort, dancing, gambling and love-making, were the order of the day. Time was short and who could tell how many would return after their trip to the sea. My time was fully occupied, every man who signed a contract for the voyage, was entitled to draw half his wages in advance, and there being no cash in circulation, this was paid out of the store goods. Finally the head guide, old Lion-like McNab, came in from Fort Pelly with more men and the last of the boats and assumed absolute charge of the Brigade. Woe betide the unlucky white who disputed his authority. Down he went with the first thing that came to hand. Now followed several days hard work, seeing that every boat would have its full complement of provisions, coverings, etc. Then carefully assorting the crews, for he it known to the uninitiated that every York boat is manned by eight men and a steersman. The heavy oars used are a load for a man, so to get better mastery of the stroke the whole crew rise and fall when rowing. The steersman standing on a platform in the stern sheets, controls every motion of the boat with a huge sweep; this being replaced by a rudder when sailing, a single mast and large square sail being used when the wind is favorable.

Guide McNab fixes the time of starting for the next day and confusion increases. The shop which stood open from early morning till late at night swarmed with men, women, children and dogs, for with every man engaged came a whole tribe of hangers on, all expecting a little of his bounty. At last the time for departure came. A few steady old hands had pulled the boats up to the beach and ladings consisted of furs, goose quills and castorium for shipment to Britain; pemmican and dressed leather for posts en route to the Bay, provisions for the trip. But, alas, over twenty men were missing. Then McNab, arming himself with a stout filler, requested me to join in the hunt, and one by one we discovered the deserters, some in Teepees under piles of bedding, often sheltered by duck damask skirts, others in the woods. Out they were pulled.

McNab's voice rang out in trumpet tones, a strange mixture of English, French and Indian oaths, predominating. Some were dragged, some carried to the boats and all were pitched-in with small ceremony. At last everything was ready, and though much beyond the time fixed for starting, off we pulled with the cheers of the men and shrill yells of farewell from Indian women and children, the eight boats passed out of sight round the point.

My orders were to accompany the Brigade until relieved, so leaving a trusty man in temporary charge of the fort, taking another and light bark canoe to assure my return, I accompanied myself in the stern sheets of the guide's boat. Nine miles down the Shoal River brought us to Lake Winnipegosis. It was beautifully calm, the different boats vying with one another for leadership. Camp was ordered at Gravel Point, a watch set to prevent desertions, eight huge fires were built for each crew and a smaller one for myself and guide. Each man was given his rations by the bowsman of the boat, whose duty it was to issue rations of pemmican and flour. In half an hour from landing, a full supply of bread was being rapidly baked, "Beaver Tail Bread." Would you like to know how it is made? Well, a stiff dough is rapidly mixed, generally on an empty sack, no shortening added, and when it attains the right consistency, lumps averaging half a pound, are handed to each man, who has already armed himself with a slender stick and half a dozen wood skewers. Pulling the dough over one end, flattening it out at the base and gradually bringing it to a point at the top, this is held firm by skewers across the whole bearing resemblance to a beaver tail; one end is pushed into the ground before the fire and a few turns thoroughly cook it, and when eaten hot, it is by no means to be despised. Others of the men were busy cooking pemmican in huge open kettles, some munching it raw. Jesting, songs and stories made the camp an animated scene. The gay capote of the French half-breed, with small hat set jauntily on the side of the head, surmounted by two black ostrich feathers, heads and silk wool galore, made them the most conspicuous figures of the crowd. Gay songs followed supper in the rude patois of the Metis, all hands joining in the chorus, while sombre Indians looked on with sphinx-like faces, and at last bed, on most fragrant spruce brush.

Hardly had I closed my eyes, when McNab's voice was heard in stentorian tones, "Leve, Leve, Leve, Le, petite tujons, Leve," and beating time with a tiller on the gunwale of a boat. Incredible! Had the night passed already? Even so, for faint streaks of daylight showed in the east, and my watch said half past two. All hands tumbled in the boats, and two hours' good pulling was done before breakfast. Thence on through the narrow and tortuous Waterhen River into Lake Manitoba. Glory! a fair wind. The oars were all shipped, masts stepped, eight mighty sails hoisted and out sailed the Brigade in the lake, our boat leading. A traverse of eighty miles by before us and after carefully noting the weather, McNab boldly stood out to sea, followed by the other boats, for it is an unwritten law, that where the guide's boat leads the other must follow. By the time we were half way across, the wind freshened to a gale and several of the crew were lying sea sick in the bottom of the boat. It was a delightful experience to me having been used to sailing from my youth up.

Towards evening we made the mouth of the Fairford River and a few minutes pulling brought us up to the post, where, alas, a senior officer was waiting to take charge of the outfit. I was busily engaged that evening in giving over the various accounts. An early start was made next morning, and away went the Brigade with many kind exclamations of regret at parting with their little clerk of Ogemassas, to give the Indian title.

Then, with my man and canoe-warily coasting the shore of lakes and rivers, we retraced our way to Shoal River House. And so four months of the summer passed until one day a youngster, breathless with excitement, rushed into the fort, calling, "Chemaun, Chemaun," and so it was.

The Need For Canadianizing the Foreign Element

Question of Teacher Shortage Has An Important Bearing on the Problem.

Ottawa.—During the conference on technical education the important question of teacher shortage and its influence on the Canadianizing of non-English speaking settlements was discussed.

The position in the western provinces was particularly in view. Hon. G. P. Smith, minister of education for Alberta, described the problem of teacher shortage as being at the root of all difficulties in Canadianizing the non-English speaking immigrant. Salaries had been increased and conditions had been improved but enrollment at teachers' training schools was lower than ever.

The conference unanimously passed a resolution strongly expressing the opinion that the federal government should, without delay provide financial assistance to the provinces so that an adequate supply of specially selected teachers may be trained for this work (in non-English speaking settlements) and in rural districts, provided with permanent and attractive homes.

for afar off could be heard the ringing of the mighty oars and at last, one by one the boats swept round the point, weather beaten and worn in appearance, but the veteran crews, pulling like lions. For was not this the home of many of them? After many handshakes and congratulations, my winter outfit was put ashore. Some sorrowful faces are seen, two men missing, one lost in a rapid, the body never found; another carrying his two pieces over a rocky portage slipped and, falling, crushed his chest; a rude cross now marks the spot.

Leaving two empty boats with me, the remainder of the Brigade galled out that evening carrying the precious outfits for Fort Pelly, Ellis, Qu'Appelle and many a faroff outpost.

This was the last time guides were brought to the Swan River district via Hudson's Bay and over many portages to their final destination. But history repeats itself. The route which to our forefathers was the chief means of access to the plains and forests of the North-West, has fallen into abeyance with the advent of the transcontinental railroads, now again, is re-asserting itself, and in the near future will again become a mighty factor in the transportation problems of Western Canada.

Faint and Dizzy Spells. Weakness and Shortness of Breath.

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, sinking, all-gone feeling, choking sensation, etc.

Many men and women become rundown and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first sign of heart weakness.

No remedy, why do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. S. Drake, Paris, Ont., writes: "I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, once in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much."

Sedalia P. O.
46-47 pd.

The Rev. W. S. Wickenden returned to Monitor on Saturday last, after an extended visit to the old country lasting about six months. He is looking much better. Owing to the usual rotten train service, the train on Saturday did not arrive until about 6 p.m.—only three hours late, and as the weather was very chilly, only two of the welcoming committee were at the station to welcome Mr. Wickenden.

STONELAW U. F. A.
